REPUDIATION.

The Real Contest Now Before the People.

TO MAINTAIN THE DIVINE LAW.

Money; Under Gold They Have Reached Bottom Conditions-We Must Have Fair Prices For Domestic Products.

In these opening days of our presiden tial campaign we hear a great deal about "repudiation." The word is used as glibly as if it were as harmless as any of the epithets employed for cam-paign purposes. One would think, from the frequent use of the term by those who advocate the single gold stand-ard, that the people who are favoring the full remonetization of silver by re-For years you and your fathers have found it of sterling worth. It is and always has been put up only by J. H. Zeilin & Co. Take and fineness of 1870, when our "unit of money" was the silver dollar and silver, not gold, was the legal standard of measure. When we consider the vast-ness of our debt and the fact that it must be paid out of the profit of earnfreely of repudiation are playing with fire in a place crowded with combusti-

There is a real repudiation, a funds mental repudiation, the repudiation of the divine law that "the laborer is worthy of his hire," which the people are now fighting against by trying to give to the exchange of products the help of silver, which will allow some profit out of which debt can be paid. There is no other way to pay it. It must be paid that way or not at all. The people who are trying to continue the gold policy, which has already reduced prices of products to or below cost line, and which, if kept up, must inevitably destrey our shility to pay our debts, are working for repudiation—for funda-mental repudiation, for undermining the foundation of sound and solvent conditions. If that is done, then the superstructure of debt built on the earnings of the people must crumble and

If we were like England, a country having insufficient natural wealth to sustain our people; if we were just a bank and a workshop, having to go all over the world for feed to supply our population, for material which their skill could fashion for man's uses and which our ships could then distribute and peddle out; if we owed no debts, but were the creditor nation of the worldthen, as a cold blooded, business proporights, it might be "business" to work the people of other countries and live and get rich off the sweat of the brows of other people, and in a cold blooded, business way we might push that ad-vantage to the limit which still per-mitted our debtors to earn enough over living expenses to meet interest and principal on credits we had granted principal on credits we had granted them. If we went farther, we should be destroying the goose that laid our golden egg. The gold standard people are now choking their goose mighty tight. But we see a great continued, with over $0,000,000 of people, with our whole land interfaced by reven, chesked over by grouping milway lines.

over by crossing sallway lines, sur-sounded by sees. Our neteral wealth is only soratched on the outerop. If we can have fair prices for our domestic products in our domestic market, we can carry our debts and win out. If our increase of production and emchange is done as constantly lowering prices, which leave no margin of profit, we must in-evitably fail. Twenty-three years of ARMISTEAD JONES,

The Most Luxurious City. John Gilmer Speed writes of the oney spent annually in "The Most COUNSELOR AND ATTORNEY AT LAW Luxurious City in the World," in the October Ladies' Home Journal. He asserts in a prefatory way that New York is the most luxurious city in the world, and that expenditured are made on mere living with an elegance and ostentation unknown in any of the capgive to each man, woman and child of that city $3,756.83-an amount greater than any other city in the world. Mr. Speed states that $20,400,000 are paid annually to the lawyers of New York; $11,329,000 to physicians and surgeons; to architects; $1,600,000 to dentists; inges. The elevated railroads take in $12,000,000 for carfare, and the surface lines $15,000,000,a total of $27,000,-000 for going about New York, Mr. Speed estimates that $31,837,500 are spent by New Yorkers each year in European travel, $3,537,500 of which go for steamship tickets. New Yorkers spend $30,000,000 for beer and $90,-000,000 for wine and spirits-about sixty-six and two-third dollars for each person per year. In their gifts to charities New Yorkers are most liberal, $9,-000,000 being the annual sum thus expended. More money is spent in supporting and furthering church work in New York than is paid all theatres and playhouses of the city. The total spent for amusements is $5,900,000. while considerably more than $6,000,-000 is contributed to the support of churches. Again That Crime. Referring to the "crime of 1873." Senator Beck, of Kentucky, said

Again he said, May 10: "In all the legislation of this country there is no mystery equal to the demonstization of the standard silver dollar."

Senator Thurman said in 1878: "When the bill was pending in the Senate, we thought it was simply a bill to reform the mint, etc., and there was not a single man in the Senate, I think, unless a member of the committee from which the bill came, who had the slightest idea that it was even a squint towards demonetization.

nttered not only an epigram, but a sci-entific formula. The Republican theory of the relations of the government with the national prosperity is and has been literally as he states it. The influence literally as he states it. The influence of this theory has been superially marked in the tariff policy with which the name of William McEinley has been conspicuously identified. Nobody pretends that there is anything in any tariff law that gives anything directly to a workman, shopkeeper or clerk, and it cannot be seriously maintained that such laws contain any direct benefits for farmers. The benefits of a high tariff, according to its advocates, descend upon the to its advocates, descend upon the masses by way of the large employers of labor. It is the purpose of this chronicle of facts to show that the money power of 1878 was guilty of either mental harlotry, mendacious assurance or gross misconception in 1878.

During the discussion of the act reviving the coinage of the 413% grain silver dollar the goldbug press and the goldbug statesmen shricked "Calamity!" and "Panie!" with quite as much vigor as they do now. The New York and Boston papers howled dismally and with quite their present assurance. Some of the Republican statesmen were quite as sure that the country would go to the demnition bowwows if the silver bill passed as they are on this occasion concerning the free coinage of silver. Representative Townsend of Pennsylvania said—as reported in The Congressional Record—concerning the Bland bill, that to pass it "would allow the olemn obligation of the government to be paid off in coin worth less than 80 ents on the dollar and give such shock to our credit as would disgrace us in the eyes of the civilized world and press our bonded obligation 20 per cent in value. It would besides drive every gold coin out of the country within an incredibly short

Mr. Garfield was a very good man, guite petriotic and a fairly wise one, but he did not know it all, as we shall show presently, for the very bill which he was alluding to passed and instead of driving gold out of the country "in an incredible short space of time," as stated by Congressman Townsend, it has never flown in so fast as it did in the year following the passage of that bill. Instead of the "one wast oresh" predieted there was renewed business vigor all over the land, and instead of our bonded obligations falling $0 per cent they continued to go to a higher pre-
